

The past week was filled with many delightful affairs. Chief among them being the card parties given by Mrs. H. J. Newman, the dinner at the home of Mrs. Russell, the high school dance, the card party given by Miss Mable Sharp, the reception given in honor of the opening of the Hamilton wing at St. Mark's hospital, and the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Shaffer and Mr. Lucien Clayton Pearce.

Society was well represented at the theatre at each play given by the Frawley company during the past week.

Since Miss Barker returned to the Grand the company has played to remarkably large audiences. She is one of the most popular leading ladies the Grand has ever known.

To whom did the Argus refer yesterday when it spoke of the new diamond ring now being worn by a well known brunette?

The prettiest card party of the week was the one given by Mrs. H. J. Newman on Thursday evening. The drawing rooms were decorated in calla lilies, violets, lilies of the valley and carnations. German whist was played and at its conclusion prizes were awarded. Mrs. Downey was given the first prize, an emerald jewel box. Miss Woodward won the second prize—a picture of "The Fates." General prizes were given the gentlemen's first prize—a gold chain bracelet, and the second prize—a handsome book. At 11 o'clock the guests sat down to refreshments in the dining room at a table exquisitely decorated in La France roses and broad pink satin streamers extending from the center to each guest's place where it was finished with bunches of daffodils, American beauty roses and carnations. The guests were Major and Mrs. Downey, Colonel and Mrs. Dunsen, Mr. Woodward, Miss Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bidwell, Mr. and Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. Kimball, Mr. Charles Road, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Markland, Major and Mrs. Wilkes, Dr. and Mrs. Wilcher, Judge and Mrs. Miner, Judge and Mrs. Henderson, Mr. George Downey, Mrs. Fisher, Colonel and Mrs. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Glendinning, Colonel and Mrs. Penrose, Mr. and Mrs. McClure, Major and Mrs. Girard, Mr. McClure.

The German club will meet tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. William C. Jennings.

Miss Thorne gave a Welsh rabbit party Tuesday evening. Among those who were present were Miss Alf, Mr. Wentworth, Mr. McKay, Mr. Leon and Mr. Ferris.

Miss Grace Anderson entertained the M. O. C. D. club last evening. Games in honor of St. Valentine were the feature of the evening.

Captain and Mrs. Rhodes have taken possession of their new home at the corner of Sixth South and Fifth East streets.

Miss Irene Dickson entertained last evening at her home on South Main street in honor of St. Valentine. The guests were Eleanor Maxon, Louise Nelden, Leta McMillan, Para Pitts, Ruth Kirkpatrick, Edna Ball, Halie Ferron, Jessie Anderson, Florence Street, Bonnie O'Brien, Carrie Collier, Evelyn Thomas, Scott Woodward, Fred Jacobs, Edwin Thorne, Hamilton Coffin, Lawrence Brinker, Arthur Thomas, Lynne Clinton, Allen McKinnon, Douglas Kimball, Robert Kenyon, Hugo Drieh, Richard Ogleby, Eugene Haggood.

Mrs. Harold Russell gave a very handsome dinner party Monday evening. The guests were Mrs. H. J. Newman, Mrs. John Spencer, Mrs. George Loomis, Mrs. Frank Jennings, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. John White and Mrs. Stanley Clawson. The table around which the guests were seated was exquisitely decorated in calla lilies and ferns, while from the large glass bowl in the center violet satin ribbons radiated in all directions and were fastened to each guest's place by small hand-painted cards. At the close of the dinner the guests occupied a box at the theatre.

The most unique Valentine party ever given in the city was the one given by Mrs. H. J. Newman last evening at her home on First street. The decorations throughout were suggestive of the season. The chandelier in the drawing-room was almost hidden with a wealth of smilax, while from the center was suspended a huge heart made of red carnations and pierced with a golden arrow. Extending from the chandelier the corners of the room were festoons of smilax caught up by hearts and cupid's bows. After the guests assembled a beautiful child dressed in a white gown presented the guests with heart-shaped tally-cards painted in cupid, bows and arrows and roses from the garden of love. Then came a spirited game of hearts and the awarding of prizes to the successful contestants, followed by delicious refreshments served in the dining-room on one large and five small tables decorated in hearts and cupid's bows.

The guests were: Miss Noble, Miss Edith Noble, Miss Hanauer, Miss Ida Hanauer, Miss Kent, Miss Black, Mrs. Stevenson, Miss Taylor, Miss Mitchell, Miss Thorne, Miss Judge, Miss Clawson, Miss Cummings, Miss Ethlyn Weber, Mr. Westervelt, Mr. Scott, Captain Breton, Mr. Max Hanauer, Mr. Goodwin, Mr. Skinner, Mr. McMaister, Dr. Kirkpatrick, Mr. Cartwright, Mr. Kerwin, Mr. Nye and Mr. Alma Katz.

Mrs. John White has invitations out for a Kennington tea on Wednesday afternoon.

Paul and Ralph Nelden entertained to their friends last evening. Games and Valentines were the feature of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Lowe and

The first prize for gentlemen was won by Will Grimadell, and the second by Mr. Rich. Ben Johnson, having been given a large bouquet of flowers and a card of merit. To be the winner of the first prize for lady, Mrs. Grimadell winning second prize.

AT THE CLUBS.

The Ladies' Literary club met Friday afternoon. Topics were given by Mrs. Haywood, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. King. The subjects being Shakespeare and Literature. "Shakespeare and the Stage," "Shakespeare and the People," "Shakespeare and the Women and Their Impersonators."

At the art section of the Ladies' Literary club last Friday, the following topics will be given:

1. "Ghilardino," by Miss Hunt.
2. The Best Period of Pergino.

Woman's Club.

The paper on Municipal and Community Administration in Switzerland, given by Mrs. A. M. Bradley on Tuesday last, reviewed the national history of Switzerland and brought to the attention of the club people who have attained their present excellent system of national and municipal government.

The constitution, right, known as the initiative and referendum, requires that all proposed legislation shall originate directly with the people. The national assembly formulated the petitioners, and this, legally framed, the legislative project is referred to the people, who, by their vote, reject it or make it law.

At the paper was read a number of interesting questions were asked and the desirability and feasibility of introducing the referendum into our own national legislative system was discussed.

The club will, on Tuesday next, be addressed by Mrs. F. S. Richards, a club member, upon the life of Thomas Jefferson, one of the subjects included in the statesman series which is running throughout the club year.

Nineteenth Century Club of Provo. The Nineteenth Century club met with Mrs. Wedgewood and passed an enjoyable afternoon on Friday. After the usual order of business, a parliamentary drill was conducted by Miss Ida Jones; this was made quite interesting by the animated discussion.

Roll call was responded to by quotations from Lincoln. Among these were his Gettysburg speech and extracts from his last inaugural address, and other speeches.

The regular programme was not carried out, owing to a misunderstanding, but the time was taken up by readings by each member of "The Lone Wolf's Place," "History." After the critic's report the club adjourned.

Ogden Society.

The Ogden Society, on Feb. 9, entertained in a most charming manner by Mrs. Bigelow at her home in the Reed. Roll call was responded to by 14 of the club's most valued members. A discussion then took place in regard to the line of work to be pursued for the coming year and it was decided that American literature and different modes of education be adopted for study. Miss Bigelow then rendered a soft and sympathetic address by Mrs. Perkins on the subject of "The first paper on plays and playwrights in a manner so pleasing that the president suggested a continuation of this topic—on an early date. "Shakespeare's Predecessors" was the title of a paper given in a scholarly manner by Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Bigelow, once more entertained the club with a master piece of Mendelssohn's creation, which closed the programme, for the afternoon. It was one of the most interesting and entertaining meetings of the season. Refreshments were then served by Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Bigelow assisted by Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Bigelow.

Mr. J. H. Young and Mr. Clem Stramm gave a theatre party Friday evening.

A wedding of interest during the week was that of Miss Elizabeth Shaffer, daughter of the late Mr. Shaffer, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday afternoon at 5:30. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clarence Brown of the Congregational church.

The parlor where the ceremony was performed was decorated in carnations, roses, smilax and ferns. The bride wore white silk mulle, trimmed in ribbons and old lace, and carried white roses. The maid of honor, Miss Lillian Rutt, wore white with yellow trimmings, and carried yellow roses.

The ceremony was witnessed only by the family and intimate friends. Friday evening the home of Mr. George Stringfellow was the scene of a delightful gathering, the occasion being a birthday surprise party given in honor of Miss George Stringfellow. Among those present were Miss L. Hanauer, Miss Kay, Miss Perry, Miss Oliver, Miss Smith, Miss Gibson, Miss Thompson, Miss Fry, Miss Bolto, Miss Armstrong, Miss Day, and Messrs. Walter, Buckwalter, Spiers, Smith, Perry, Pugh, Grames, Stringfellow, Hall, Ball.

The social to be given in the Templeton hotel parlors tomorrow for the benefit of the Utah Kindergarten association, begins at 8 o'clock p. m. During the evening the following programme will be rendered:

Instrumental duet—Miss Cecelia Sharp, Mrs. Kay, Romney Stewart.
Recitation—Miss Josie Morris.
Solo—Mrs. Thomas Ashworth.
Solo—Mrs. Nellie Penrose-Whitney.
Xylophone solo—Mr. Adelbert Beersley.

Solo—Miss Della Daynes.
Solo—Miss Edna Dwyer.
Recitation—Mrs. Boyden.
Guitar solo—Professor C. D. Schettler.

Solo—Mrs. Lizzie Thomas-Edwards.
Solo—Mr. Hugh Downall.
Solo—Miss Elsie Parrows.
Recitation—Miss Jack McCune.
Solo—Mr. Dean Daynes.

The Misses Pearl and Mabel Buckle gave a progressive high five party and supper to a large gathering of their friends Thursday evening. Among those present were: Misses Janie Grimsdell, Eva Rein, Lizzie Frazier, Ida Faderick, Del Buckle, Alice Hillam, Beatrice Buckle, Garret Buckle, Lulu Buckle, Mrs. Buckle, and Messrs. Harry Luff, Charles Luff, M. Mallinger, Arthur Pitts, Ren Rowe, George Coulman, Harry Rich, George Barratt, Will Grimsdell, J. J. Thomas, W. Moore, John Buckle, Ben Johnson, Victor Buckle.

Scarce a counter or shelf in the store that isn't in the parade of new things. Pretty Parisian concoits of woven dainties—Organdies, French Tambours, Dotted Swiss, Embroidered Swiss, Irish Linens, etc.—fresh as apple blossoms—and what could be more graceful, beautiful or sentimental than a gown of roses, pansies, cysanthemums and golden rod woven into a dreamy mesh of cobweb Swiss or Organdies? Then, too, our merchandise artists, not to be surpassed by the loom artists in the matter of culling hints from Dame Nature, have made them almost as cheap for you as if they grew.

Make selections early if you desire exclusiveness of designs.

A FEW:

The Mulhouse Organdies, the finest and most delicate, 20 inches wide; you would have paid not less than 40 cents the yard last year; they are fresh from the looms, and you pay only—40c

The Alize Organdies are in dark color effects, Persian and other patterns, which will be very popular this season. We have marked them in—167c

Lappet Stripes, sheer weaves, proper design for shirt waists, per yard—15c

Tambours in Persian designs 25c

French Swiss, in shades of Pink, Blue, Green, Yellow, etc., ranging in prices from 15 cents down to—10c

In French weaves of the richest wash fabrics for the season is the Oriental embroidered; it is one and a quarter yards wide with make handsome gowns; per yard—90c

A line of linen batistes, very sheer and pretty in plaids, stripes and dotted; one and a quarter wide; in prices as high as 50 cents and low as—50c

EXTRAORDINARY.

Just seven dress patterns of handsome French novelty styles left; take them for much less than they cost us—

$18.00 Suit for ..... $ 9.00
$21.00 Suit for ..... $10.00
$15.00 Suit for ..... $ 7.50
$26.00 Suit for ..... $12.00
$16.00 Suit for ..... $ 8.00
$32.50 Suit for ..... $15.00

On Monday Afternoon, from 3 to 4 o'clock, One Hour Only, in Center Aisle, we place on sale a large number of LADIES' SPRING JACKETS, worth from $5.00 to $10.00 each, at $1.00.

Walker Brothers Dry Goods Co. Walker Brothers Dry Goods Co.

LION AND MAFIA.

(Copyright, 1937, by S. S. McClure Co.)

Carlo Lombardi, the celebrated American lion tamer, had arrived at the little Sicilian village of Villabruna, and the place was much excited thereby. Surely, no one but a celebrated lion tamer could have subdued the immense lion Lombardi had just brought from Algeria, a beast so fierce that it was days after his arrival before any of the villagers plucked up courage enough to enter the courtyard where he was caged.

When Lombardi had been in the village six weeks he had so far subdued the lion that he could enter the cage at any time after the animal had eaten, a blonde, sturdy fellow, the village had seen. The villagers were beginning to regard the trainer as almost a fixture in the village, and he was no longer regarded with the same awe as when he first came to the village.

The event of next week will be the engineers' ball occurring Thursday at the Union Opera House. The decorations are to be of a magnificent scale.

The Valentine ball Friday night by the young ladies of the Third ward will be an event of every particular. A large crowd danced through a choice programme. The same committee will give another ball Wednesday next.

TO MY VALENTINE.

[Written for The Sunday Herald.]

Dear Valentine, I've counted o'er
My friends' most charming brothers.
And still I find you more
Than any of the others;
And oh, my heart would be so sore
If you were all another's.

I love you. Life would lose its charms
If I could think not of you;
And when the cruel world alarms,
It is such happy bliss
To find a shelter in your arms—
Upon my life your kiss.

Your praise, though lighter than the breeze,
How much my pathway cheers!
Then something swells my throat and
My eyes with happy tears:
And when you praise, the old world finds
I laugh at all its cares.

You come at Fancy's fiftal play,
And at her summons follow;
I call you and would bid you stay—
You vanish from my sight,
And I am left to find my way
I am alone tonight.

In Love's domain there are no laws,
And so I do not bother
To hide my love in formal clause,
Though some perhaps would rather
Believe I love you not at all,
Because you are my father!

SALT LAKE CITY. ANNE PIKE.

A Perpendicular Farm.

Julian Hawthorne writes of "A Tropic Climax," describing one of his experiences in Jamaica, for the February Century. Mr. Hawthorne says: The land up here is doubtless government land, which sells for about 50 cents an acre. If, however, it is measured on the horizontal, such an estate as this must come cheap indeed. I don't believe the horizontal extent of this plantation, which might have had an acre of a quarter of an acre, was more than 15 or 20 feet. It is a perpendicular region. The most convenient way to operate such holdings would be to rig a derrick to the top, and swing the man with the hoe by a rope in front of his field of labor. He would have to be careful in gathering his produce, lest it should escape his grasp and roll half a mile down into the depths of the valley.

Very Old Man.

Thomas Carroll of Cotton Hollow, Naugatuck, Conn., says he is 110 years old. He lives with his only daughter, Mrs. O'Connor. He is small and wiry, with a shock of white hair, and can repeat the creed and the Lord's prayer in Gaelic, and is well posted in Irish folk lore. He was born in county Kerry, Ireland, and says his birthday is March 17, St. Patrick's day. He has chewed tobacco since a boy, but never drank liquor. He has a brother, Patrick Carroll, now living, and aged about 50.

NO "BAKSHISH" IN THE DESERT.

Arabs Will Not Accept Any Gifts From Their Guests.

R. Talbot Kelly, an English artist who has lived long among the Arabs, writes and illustrates a paper entitled "In the Desert With the Bedouin," which appears in the February Century. In discussing Arabian hospitality, Mr. Kelly says: "I had not much time for quiet observation, as one by one all of the head men of the tribe called to say their respects to the stranger within their gates." Taking off his shoes at the entrance, each one advanced with many salaams, and kissing my hand, uttered the single word,

People and Events.

Intimate friends of the late Alexander Dumas have resolved to keep the remembrance of the dramatist alive in their minds by a special dinner every three months.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland enjoyed her first state ball on New Year's day. It was given at the palace of Amsterdam, was attended by 1,000 guests, and was a great success.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

Two muskets roared and the house shook again as a louder roar burst forth and the lion leaped madly into the crowd. Angered by the pain of wound, the great charge was made and then another, boisterous and blinding the being men until he had fallen four times. Lombardi rushed into the yard with his whip and pistol. The last of the lion's charge was over.

"Into your cage, Napoleon!" The lion cringed before his master, but did not obey, growling loudly. Then came the whip upon his flanks in a rain of blows, and the terror of the Mafia hastily skulked into his cage and threw himself on his back in an attitude of supplication.

NO "BAKSHISH" IN THE DESERT.

Arabs Will Not Accept Any Gifts From Their Guests.

R. Talbot Kelly, an English artist who has lived long among the Arabs, writes and illustrates a paper entitled "In the Desert With the Bedouin," which appears in the February Century. In discussing Arabian hospitality, Mr. Kelly says: "I had not much time for quiet observation, as one by one all of the head men of the tribe called to say their respects to the stranger within their gates." Taking off his shoes at the entrance, each one advanced with many salaams, and kissing my hand, uttered the single word,

People and Events.

Intimate friends of the late Alexander Dumas have resolved to keep the remembrance of the dramatist alive in their minds by a special dinner every three months.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland enjoyed her first state ball on New Year's day. It was given at the palace of Amsterdam, was attended by 1,000 guests, and was a great success.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

People and Events.

Intimate friends of the late Alexander Dumas have resolved to keep the remembrance of the dramatist alive in their minds by a special dinner every three months.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland enjoyed her first state ball on New Year's day. It was given at the palace of Amsterdam, was attended by 1,000 guests, and was a great success.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

People and Events.

Intimate friends of the late Alexander Dumas have resolved to keep the remembrance of the dramatist alive in their minds by a special dinner every three months.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland enjoyed her first state ball on New Year's day. It was given at the palace of Amsterdam, was attended by 1,000 guests, and was a great success.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.

The "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass., made famous by Longfellow, has passed into the hands of Samuel H. Howe of Boston, a descendant of the original owner of the tavern. He will convert the building into a hotel, and the condition of the poet. It will be fitted with articles of historic interest, and restored to its former glory.

An old rail fence that Lincoln is said to have built is pointed out to strangers on the premises of a Marion county (Kentucky) distillery. Lincoln's father and the father of Jefferson were said to have built it in that region, and are said to have fought side by side in a little brush with the Indians.

California is trying to place on record a record in which it is said to have started the great business of fruit raising. So far the evidence seems to be in favor of California, which has raised 500 acres of apricots and peaches, and 500 grapes in the town of Winters, in Solano county, in 1811. In 1855 the first apricots from that region were sold.